About Legacy Land Conservancy

Since 1971, we have:

- ✓ Protected more than 10,000 acres of land in the greater Washtenaw, Jackson and Lenawee areas
- ✓ Worked with 76 landowners to protect over 4,000 acres of private land via conservation easements
- ✓ Protected 320 acres as public nature preserves that include over 9.5 miles of trails
- ✓ Completed 48 projects with partners resulting in 5,288 acres protected
- ✓ Worked with 742 volunteers who recorded more than 34,500 volunteer hours

Legacy Land Conservancy has been working to protect and preserve forests, prairies, farms, wetlands, and waters since 1971. As the area's only accredited land trust, we partner with individuals, landowners, fellow environmental nonprofits, and government-entities to protect land—forever—through private conservation easements and publicly accessible nature preserves in Washtenaw, Jackson, and Lenawee counties.

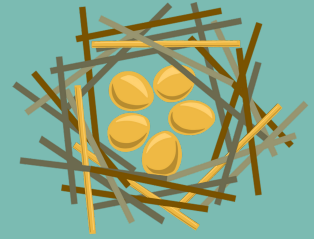

Through innovative and collaborative land protection, Legacy provides conservation of wildlife habitat, preservation of working farms, conserved rural heritage and availability of local food sources, increased access to nature for recreation and scenic enjoyment, and clean water safeguarded in healthy watersheds.

To date, we have protected more than 10,000 acres of land in southern Michigan, which helps mitigate climate change locally, positively impacts the overall health of the Great Lakes, and safeguards our Pure Michigan way of life. Your support helps to fight climate change and plays an integral part of Michigan's clean water.
